

Engineering the world

Engineer and science broadcaster Rhys Phillips, 2012 UK Young Engineer of the Year Jess Jones and guests show us how they help make the world go round.

From the tiny chips inside your gadgets to the tallest skyscrapers, engineering is everywhere! See how it could help out an escape artist, find out how radioactive a banana is and listen to musical lightning created before your very eyes (and ears) in this thrilling show.

This is a family show aimed at ages 11 years plus. Cost £3.50 a ticket.

Contact: Stephen Powley spowley@theiet.org

Date & Time: Monday 3 November 2014 at doors open 15:45 - 17:30

Venue: Guildhall Theatre, Market Place, Derby DE1 3AH

Registration: <http://bit.ly/engineering-the-world>

www.theiet.org/communities